

DRAFTS BY WHICH STATE MONEY WAS WITHDRAWN FROM COOPER EXCHANGE BANK

Matter Then Will Be Taken from Magistrate Moss and Appellate Decision Will Settle Status.

"As you may notice, I have a deep feeling in the matter. It is the one subject of regret in my life. I never fight me made during the campaign of 1891. I have no more interest in the matter. I never expect to be in the matter, but I want to tell you that the Democratic Club to know the treachery of the man who sneaked into our ranks during the darker campaign and turned traitor."

"Mr. Belmont told me not to tell all these things, but I have done so. Perhaps I have done wrong, but I am a free citizen. I am speaking to democrats and friends—friends I have known for many years. I have no more to say. I am going into the city. It has been long in my mind."

United States attorney, furnished $5,000 and there would be no further arrears for the present. Some of the men who were arrested in connection with the investigation, and none would be used as witness against the others. Assistant United States attorney Robert M. Gibson said the transactions involve close to $50,000, instead of $300,000, as stated.

MYSTERY UNTIL THE INQUEST.

Coroner Still Investigating Death of Dr. H. Hoyle Butts.

Mystery still surrounds the case of Dr. H. Hoyle Butts, who was found dying in his apartment in the Hotel Seville, Madison avenue and Twenty-ninth street, Monday morning. Coroner Dooley is investigating the affair but said last night that he would not immediately advise any of the men who were arrested until an inquest had been held.

PRINCE ARTHUR WELCOMED.

VICTORIA, B. C., Tuesday.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, nephew of King Edward, with a suite consisting of Lord Redesdale, General Kelly-Kenny, Admiral Seymour, Colonel Davidson, Captain Wyndham, and Miss Lampong, of the British Foreign Office, arrived here to-day on the steamer Empress of Japan from Japan. An immense crowd assembled at the pier.

Canada was in effect the party, and was driven to the Parliament buildings, where Mayor Morley presented an address of welcome.

The prince and suite will have two days' fishing at Cowichan, a famous fishing district near Victoria, and will proceed to Vancouver this morning, en route through Canada.

TUSKEGEE TO GET $650,000.

Andrew J. Dotger by Will Bequiths
Largest Gift Ever Made to Booker
Washington College.

According to the terms of the will of Andrew J. Dotger, of New York and South Orange, an inventory of whose personal estate was filed with Surrogate Russell, of Essex county, in Newark yesterday, Tuskegee Institute, Booker T. Washington's industrial college for negroes in Alabama, will be enriched to the extent of about $650,000 upon the death of Mrs. Dotger.

Mr. Dotger's personal estate alone is worth $294,000, besides irrevaluable estate. After making specific bequests amounting to $700,000, he will give the income of $650,000 to Tuskegee Institute. After his death it will revert to Tuskegee.

pose. Tomlinson Hall is a dark, low auditorium, but in the furthest end of the hall they could see that the mine workers' delegates were there.

"It was my expectation," said he, "when we convened here this afternoon that we were going to an adjustment of our differences, would be between the operators. It is evident that they have not agreed among themselves to submit their differences to arbitration. Consequently any proposition looking to a settlement or adjustment of our relations. Every one here is disappointed. I am the general secretary of the Joint State Convention and know that the miners' parties to that joint conference, have gone out of their way to make it a success. They have invested in them by the miners' Convention to meet the grave and full responsibilities of the situation as it affects the miners, but they have failed to do so. They are not as countrymen and citizens, and business and the suggestions of the President of our country. And it will be evident to all that the miners' parties are in the favor of the States who must and who

Cooper Exchange Bank for Woods had been managing director of the latter bank. The $200,000 of the Federal Reserve Bank were not calculated to help the business of the Cooper Exchange Bank. Consequently, about this time, that is, on July 1, 1901, A. J. Underhill, president of the Cooper Exchange Bank, the entry in the bills receivable book reading: "To A. J. Underhill, $200,000," was made. When the bank was passed, and continued to do business.

Got $200,000 More.

From this time the affairs of the bank were in a state of confusion. Only through the greatest exertions were the officers enabled to borrow sums sufficient to keep the bank afloat. In September, 1901, Gillman procured $100,000 from the Canal fund as a deposit in the bank, bringing the total deposits up to $300,000. The bank was then able to redeem the bond for the canal fund deposit. Judson, who appears to have made frequent trips to the States, then called on George Knapp, cashier, was allowing deposits to be made for consideration. He was and
